The purpose of the SSAT is to establish a standard method of measurement for the skills that have been acquired by school applicants. These skills are considered critical to schools for a first- year student to be able to succeed. The principle behind the SSAT is similar to the SAT's that are required for application to American colleges.

The SSAT provides students with a percentile, not a percent. So, it is of no help to calculate a raw score into a percent. (Example: if a student gets 22 out of 60 after deductions on the verbal section, it does not mean the student will receive a score of 37%). A percentile, unlike a percent, is not out of 100.
